"It's Back to School Time – Oh, What a Joy!"

Dear Friends,

I would like to dedicate this letter to all of our back-to-schoolers! This week I received some photos of my nieces and nephews who were heading off to their first day of school. And of course, as any good mother would, my sisters captured the send-off with some photos.

Now, it's important to note that they range from pre-K to 7th grade. The excitement on their faces for another year of school was fun to see, I am glad my sisters sent me the photos. It reminded me of a few lines penned by G.K. Chesterton in his classic work, Orthodoxy, where he is describing the vitality and sense of amazement that the youth approach the most "ordinary" things in life, and says that God and the world He created is filled with such amazement. He writes:

"A child kicks his legs rhythmically through excess, not absence, of life. Because children have abounding vitality, because they are in spirit fierce and free, therefore they want things repeated and unchanged. They always say, "Do it again"; and the grown-up person does it again until he is nearly dead. For grown-up people are not strong enough to exult in monotony. But perhaps God is strong enough to exult in monotony. It is possible that God says every morning, "Do it again "to the sun; and every evening, "Do it again" to the moon.

It may not be automatic necessity that makes all daisies alike; it may be that God makes every daisy separately, but has never got tired of making them. It may be that He has the eternal appetite of infancy; for we have sinned and grown old, and our Father is younger than we. The repetition in Nature may not be a mere recurrence; it may be a theatrical ENCORE. Heaven may ENCORE the bird who laid an egg." (G.K. Chesterton, Orthodoxy, ch. 4)

I received them back-to-school photos about an hour or so before I was scheduled to celebrate our 8AM mass, which leads me to the second thought that I had that morning. They were going to the first day of school and I was going to my "first" celebration of the mass. Let me explain.

I felt like I shared a similar joy and excitement that they expressed to the first day of classes; however, mine was directed towards something much different, the Holy Mass. There is a wall hanging in our sacristy that captures the idea best, one that I have made reference to before. It says, "Priest of Jesus Christ, celebrate this Holy Mass as if it were your first Mass, your last Mass, your only Mass." This is a disposition that we would all do well to cultivate in our approach to Mass, to life, and to our Faith. Our Faith, our lives, and more specifically the Holy Mass, are truly wonderful.

St. John Paul II says, "We need the enthusiasm of the young. We need the joy of life that young people have. It reflects something of the original joy that God had in creating man."

Today's world needs true joy. Many of us need true joy, not the cheap thrills and entertainment that produce empty or transitory smiles like those of actors on a stage. We do not need more toys or cheap experiences that may distract us for a time and lead us to believe that joy consists in permanently laughing and having a good time.

Fulton Sheen explains it well, "Joy is not the same as pleasure or happiness. Pleasure generally comes from things, and always through the senses; happiness comes from humans through fellowship. Joy comes from loving God and neighbor. Pleasure is quick and violent, like a flash of lightning. Joy is steady and abiding, like a fixed star. Pleasure depends on external circumstances, such as money, food, travel, etc. Joy is independent of them, for it comes from a good conscience and love of God."

And so, back-to-schoolers, perhaps the greatest thing that you can pack into your backpacks this school year is your capacity to be amazed, excited, and enthusiastic. You have the capacity to live life with a gigantic soul. The young have a confidence, not necessarily in themselves, but in the greatness of the adventure.

Translate this into true joy and the adventure of the faith, we can conclude saying that the youthful soul will always be happy. He knows that the Triune-God is living and true. He knows that God has so loved the world that He sent his only Son, Jesus Christ, who died for his sins and crushed them. He is confident that good has triumphed over evil, and the evil one will only have as much power and reign as God almighty permits, for our good and His glory!

Mary, Our Lady of Peace, pray for us,

Fr. Brian
