Today We Celebrate

The Seventeenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

FROM OUR PASTOR

Dear Parishioners,

In the Encyclical Letter Rerum Novarum Pope Leo XIII affirmed the need for Sunday rest “so that people may turn their thoughts to heavenly things and to the worship which they owe to Almighty God.” It is to this topic that today I wish to dedicate this space.

On the seventh day God finished his work which he had done. (Gn 2:2)

It would be silly for us to interpret God’s “rest” as a kind of divine “inactivity”. By its nature, the creative act which founds the world is unceasing and God is always at work, as Jesus himself declares in speaking of the Sabbath precept: My Father is working still, and I am working (Jn 5:17). The divine rest of the seventh day does not allude to an inactive God, but emphasizes the fullness of what has been accomplished. In fact, with the image of God resting, the Bible indicates the Creator’s joyful pleasure in the work of his hands. In this sense, the “Lord’s Day” is the day that shows God’s love for his creatures.

The Sabbath precept of the Old Testament, which prepares for the Sunday of the new and eternal Covenant, is therefore rooted in the depths of God’s plan. So, the Church, by establishing the precept of attending Sunday Mass and avoiding unnecessary work, declares that we consider it not just a matter of community religious discipline but a defining and indelible expression of our relationship with God, announced and explained in the Bible. This is the perspective within which we need to rediscover this precept today. Although the precept may merge naturally with the human need for rest, it is faith alone which gives access to its deeper meaning and ensures that it will not become banal and trivialized, as St. John Paul II writes in Dies Domini.

In the first place, Sunday is the day of rest because it is the day “blessed” by God and “made holy” by him, set apart from the other days to be, among all of them, “the Lord’s Day.”

Therefore, if God “sanctifies” the seventh day with a special blessing and makes it “his day” par excellence, this must be understood within the deep dynamic of the dialogue of love which knows no interruption, yet is never monotonous.

All our life must become praise to our Creator and thanksgiving to Him. “The Lord’s Day” is the day of this relationship par excellence, a day on which we are invited, contemplating the face of the risen Christ, to repeat with the apostle: My Lord and my God! (Jn 20:28).

This is precisely why it is also the day of rest. It recalls that the universe and history belong to God; and without a constant awareness of that truth, we cannot serve in the world as co-worker of the Creator.

A practical advice: Whatever is your particular vacation destination, you must make every effort to make sure that you attend Sunday Mass. Participation in the Sunday Eucharist is an obligation for every practicing Catholic –and vacation does not dispense us from this weekly encounter with Christ in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass– for it is only through these sacramental encounters with the Lord that we can grow in the grace necessary to be faithful to our baptismal vocation to holiness.

To our Blessed Mother we entrust this vacation period, to make the most of it as a favorable time to rediscover the primacy of the interior life. May she enable us to be aware of God’s gifts and may Sunday become more and more the day when families gather for the Eucharist and spend a restful time filled with Christian joy.

May God bless you!

Fr. Gustavo Nieto, IVE

Diocese of San Jose

Office of the Bishop

July 10, 2014

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

The Bishops of California today issued a statement on the arrival of displaced persons, mostly women and children, in Southern California. I join with my brother bishops in recognizing the enormity of this humanitarian crisis and in asking for your prayers. In particular, I ask that each parish include the intentions of these immigrants in the Universal Prayer/General Intercessions at Sunday and weekday Masses. I also encourage parishes to offer other opportunities for prayer for all of those who are affected by these events.

I call your attention to a Prayer Vigil that is being hosted at Our Lady of Guadalupe Parish tonight at 7:30 pm.

Quoting from the bishops' statement, I want to emphasize the following three points regarding these immigrants:

- We recognize our responsibility as a Church of compassion to come to their aid and help provide them with the practical and pastoral support they so need.
- These children and families have journeyed to our country, fleeing violence and destitution in Central America. Sadly, their experience in California has thus far been marked by hostility and near chaos. They are exhausted, afraid and clinging to hope.
- The gravity of this situation transcends politics; it is truly a humanitarian crisis that calls all of us, Catholics and others of good will, to respond with compassion and with urgent action.

May God bless the efforts of all who work on behalf of these children and families, and may the Lord move the hearts of those who are able to address a humanitarian crisis with humanitarian intervention.

With every best wish and kind regard, I remain,

Sincerely yours,

STATEMENT OF CALIFORNIA BISHOPS ON THE TRANSPORT OF DISPLACED MIGRANT CHILDREN AND FAMILIES TO CALIFORNIA

In recent days, the people of our state have witnessed the arrival of hundreds of displaced people, mostly women and children, to various locations in Southern California. The Bishops of California wish to express our solidarity with these immigrant brothers and sisters who are coming to our state and to offer our prayer that God will deliver them to the safe environment they seek.

We also recognize our responsibility as a Church of compassion to come to their aid and help provide them with the practical and pastoral support they so need.

These children and families have journeyed to our country, fleeing violence and destitution in Central America. Sadly, their experience in California has thus far been marked by hostility and near chaos. They are exhausted, afraid and clinging to hope.

The gravity of this situation transcends politics; it is truly a humanitarian crisis that calls all of us, Catholics and others of good will, to respond with compassion and with urgent action.

The response of Catholic agencies and other community-based groups has already begun. Catholic Charities, working in collaboration with directly affected dioceses and other service organizations, is mobilizing to help these immigrants in centers of hospitality and assistance. Many individuals have contacted our parishes and social service agencies asking how they can help. This reflects the best of the American spirit.

We are particularly concerned about the safety and security of the thousands of unaccompanied children that have crossed our border, without a parent or guardian and without family ties to the US. They desperately need our help.

Federal officials believe that groups of migrants will continue to arrive throughout the summer. The most affected dioceses will be asking parishioners and others for donations of time and money. We ask you to respond to this call. In this critical moment, Jesus' parable of the Good Samaritan reminds us of what we are called to do.

Federal, state and local government agencies also have a role to play in responding to this heartbreaking situation. We urge Congress to appropriate the resources necessary to care for unaccompanied children. We also urge opposition to the "fast track authority" requested by the Administration that could send children back to the violence they attempted to flee without a proper hearing—and in violation of their rights.

We recognize the passion surrounding this issue. We call on all Californians of good will to express themselves with civility and respect, and to refrain from violence. We ask the Catholic community to join together in solidarity with these children of God, our brothers and sisters, to provide help and give them hope.

Our strength as a nation has always been a matter of the heart. May the heart of Christ guide the people of California to a just and compassionate response for these huddled masses of children gathered at our door.
