Today We Celebrate the Third Sunday of Ordinary Time

FROM OUR PASTOR

Dear Parishioners,

Traditionally on January 25th the Church celebrates the conversion of the Apostle Paul (this year, it is outranked by the Third Sunday in Ordinary time). Notwithstanding, I'd like to mention briefly something about the transformation of this persecutor of Christianity into a fervent apostle of Christ.

He was a Jew, of the tribe of Benjamin. At his circumcision, he was named Saul. His father was by sect a Pharisee, living in Tarsus, the capital of Cilicia. St. Paul, being born at Tarsus, was by privilege a Roman citizen, to which quality a great distinction and several exemptions were granted by the laws of the empire.

On the basis of the profound Orthodoxy that he learned at the school of Rabbi Hillel in Jerusalem, he saw the new movement that referred to Jesus of Nazareth as a risk, a threat to the Jewish identity. This explains the fact that he proudly persecuted the Church of God as he was to admit three times in his Letters (1 Cor 15: 9; Gal 1: 13; Phil 3: 6). He, in fact, was one of those who abetted in the murder St. Stephen by keeping the garments of all who stoned that holy martyr; thereby – according to St. Augustine – becoming guilty as if he himself threw all those stones. Augustine also ascribes the conversion of St. Paul to St. Stephen: "If Stephen," he said, "had not prayed, the church would never have had St. Paul."

Moreover, in the fury of his zeal, St. Paul applied to the high priest and Sanhedrim for a commission to take up all Jews at Damascus who confessed Jesus Christ, and bring them bound to Jerusalem, that they might serve as public examples for the terror of others. But God was pleased to show forth in him his patience and mercy; and, moved by the prayers of St. Stephen and his other persecuted servants, changed him, in the very heat of his fury, into a vessel of election, and made him a greater man in his church by the grace of the apostleship.

He was almost at the end of his journey to Damascus, when about noon he and his company were suddenly surrounded by a great light from heaven, brighter than the sun. They all saw the light, and being struck with amazement, fell to the ground. Then Saul heard a voice, which to him was articulate and distinct: Saul, Saul, why do you persecute me? Christ said not: Why do you persecute my disciples? ... but Me: for it is He, their head, who is chiefly persecuted in his servants.

Saul answered: Who are you, Lord? Christ said: Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecute. It is hard for you to kick against the goad: "to contend with one so much mightier than yourself. By persecuting my church you make it flourish, and only prick and hurt yourself." This earnest and kind protest of our Lord, accompanied with a powerful interior grace, cured his pride, appeased his rage, and wrought at once a total change in him. Thus, trembling and astonished, he cried out: Lord, what will you have me to do? What to repair the past? What to promote your glory? I make a joyful oblation of myself to execute your will in everything, and to suffer for your sake afflictions, disgraces, persecutions, torments, and every sort of death. The true convert expressed this, not in a bare form of words, nor with faint languid desires, nor with any exception lurking in the secret recesses of his heart; but with an entire sacrifice of himself, and an heroic victory over the world with its frowns and charms, over the devils with their snares and threats, and over himself and all inclinations of self-love; devoting himself totally to God. A perfect model of a true conversion, the greatest work of almighty grace!

Christ ordered him to arise and proceed on his journey to the city, where he should be informed of what he expected from him. Christ would not instruct him immediately by himself, but, St. Augustine observes, sent him to the ministry which he had established in the Church.

St. Paul never recalled his wonderful conversion without raptures of gratitude and praise to the divine mercy. The Church, in thanksgiving to God for such a miracle of his grace, and to propose to us a perfect model of a true conversion, has instituted this feast, which we find mentioned in several calendars and missals of the eighth and ninth centuries, and which Pope Innocent III commanded to be observed with great solemnity.

Today also, Jesus' voice "passes through our mind and goes to the heart, for Jesus seeks our conversion." (Pope Francis, 04/19/13) Let's listen to Him.

May God Bless you!
Fr. Gustavo Nieto, IVE

Diocese of San Jose

Office of the Bishop

MEMORANDUM

To: Priests, Deacons, Pastoral Ministers, Principals, Liturgists and Liturgical Ministers
From: Bishop Patrick J. McGrath
Re: Temporary Liturgical Adaptations during the 2015 Flu/Cold Season
Date: January 10, 2015

The Public Health Officer of Santa Clara County has again requested that we make a number of temporary adaptations to our celebrations of the Eucharist, so as to foster the health of our worshipping communities and also of the wider community. Given the anticipated increase of the flu throughout the Diocese in upcoming weeks, I ask that these adaptations be implemented by next weekend, January 17/18.

1. For the duration of the flu/cold/virus season, Holy Communion will not be shared under the form of Consecrated Wine. Concelebrating priests and assisting deacons are to receive the Precious Blood by means of intinction. Provision should be made for those parishioners who rely upon receiving Holy Communion under the Sacred Species of consecrated wine because of celiac disease or other conditions that do not tolerate the ingestion of a consecrated host.
2. For the duration of the flu/cold/virus season, Holy Communion will be distributed only into the hands of communicants; during this time, Holy Communion will not be distributed on the tongue.
3. For the duration of the flu/cold/virus season, people should not hold hands during the recitation or singing of the Lord's Prayer.
4. For the duration of the flu/cold/virus season, the Sign of Peace should be adapted so as to allow for a greeting that does not involve shaking hands or touching.
5. For the duration of the flu/cold/virus season, all who administer Holy Communion are to wash their hands with an alcohol-based anti-bacterial solution, such as Purell, before and after they administer the Sacrament. This precaution also extends to those who minister to the homebound.
6. These adaptations are to remain in effect throughout the Diocese until conditions allow me to rescind them.

When you explain these adapted procedures to your people, please remind them that the obligation to participate in Sunday Mass does not hold for those who are seriously ill, and that it would be a mark of Christian charity for anyone who has fever, cough or other such symptoms to remain at home. Please refer to the article, "Liturgy, Cold, and the Flu: Common Sense Practices," which Diana Macalintal has circulated throughout the Diocese.

Thank you for your immediate attention to these matters and for undertaking the catechesis that will be necessary to introduce these adaptations to your parishes and other communities by the weekend of January 17/18.

The Benedict XVI Institute was launched in part 'to recover a sense of our sacred music,' Archbishop Salvatore Cordileone said. by CARL BUNDERSON/CNA/EWTN NEWS 02/10/2014 Comments

He alluded to the Vatican II document on the liturgy, "Sacrosanctum Concilium," which acknowledged Gregorian chant as "especially suited to the Roman liturgy," thus forming the core of the "sacred repertoire." "It doesn't exclude other forms of music, as the (Vatican's) instructions say, although it says it should be in keeping with the sacred nature of the liturgy," he explained, adding that the Benedict XVI Institute's purpose "would be to promote chant, and perhaps to some extent polyphony." Contemporary music, too, will be included he said, saying, "this is perhaps a good idea, that musicians understand how to use contemporary music well, because it is very popular, and that will draw people too." "This is all about evangelization. We have lots of tools in the kit: a lot of them we're not using, others we're not using as well as we could. So let's use them," and "let's use them well."

Children and Youth Religious Education Program News

"The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14

The Family as First School of Human Virtues #11: Motives for Being Obedient (Part I)

Let us now discuss the virtue of obedience, in which children need to be trained since their early years.

Motives for Being Obedient

"We can distinguish deep motives which parents ought to recognize so that that they can go on to explain them to their children, and partial motives which small children and young people need for acquiring the habit of obeying as they make their way to a full appreciation of what obedience is.

As a Christian virtue, obeying lawful authority is like obeying God. And there is no higher motive than that for doing what one is told. This motive provides the certainty that, by obeying, we ensure we do not make mistakes. The person who gives the order can make a mistake; but the person who obeys cannot, provided he does not do something which goes against justice.

Our Lady's Juggler

By Anatole France

"In the days of King Louis there was a poor juggler in France, a native of Compiègne, Barnaby by name, who went about from town to town performing feats of skill and strength.

On fair days he would unfold an old-worn carpet in the public square, and when by means of a jovial Address, which he had learned of a very ancient juggler, and which he never varied in the least, he had drawn together the children and loafers, he assumed extraordinary attitudes, and balanced a tin plate on the tip of his nose. At first the crowd would feign indifference.

But when, supporting himself on his hands face downward, he threw into the air six copper balls, which glittered in the sunshine, and caught them again with his feet; or when throwing himself backward until his heels and the nape of the neck met, giving his body the form of a perfect wheel, he would juggle in this posture with a dozen knives, a murmur of admiration would escape the spectators, and pieces of money rain down upon the carpet.

Nevertheless, like the majority of those who live by their wits, Barnaby of Compiègne had a great struggle making a living. » (from The Book of Virtues for Young People, by William Bennet, p. 352)
