Our Lady of Peace Catholic Church & Shrine Mission Statement

From the Pastor's Desk

Dear Friends,

The figure of John the Baptist returns to us this third Sunday of Advent – Gaudete Sunday: A man sent by God came and his name was John. The mission of the Baptist is a divine one, which is why he does not speak for himself.

What did St. John the Baptist say of Himself when they asked: are you the Messiah, are you the Prophet? I am not, so what do you say? I am the Voice, "then let's be a Voice," says Saint Augustine in a beautiful text. He explains, "I am the voice, and what is the voice?" Asks St. Augustine, "the voice is a sound, it is nothing more than a vehicle of the word, a great vehicle of the verb, I can have in my heart, an idea, a word, but as long as I do not lend my voice to that word that I have in my heart, that word remains in my heart and the other does not grasp it. It is necessary that I give the word the sound of the voice, then the sound goes forth, but the word remains," says St. Augustine. (Sermo 293, 3: PL 1328-1329) And such is the voice of John, and so must be the voice of the Christian. The word is living and true. The message is relevant. However, we may ask with St. Paul: "how can they call on him in whom they have not believed? And how can they believe in him of whom they have not heard? And how can they hear without someone to preach?"

The Church has, from the beginning, been called to witness. This is what St. John the Baptist did. His mission is described as witness: he comes as a witness, to bear witness to the light, so that all might believe through him. He stands before the world as a witness by his word, by his life, and by his death: with his word, announcing the coming of the Messiah at hand; with his life, because he first lived the message with an austerity of life that committed him fully to the Gospel; and with his death, his martyrdom, which was a consequence of respecting and adhering to the truth that God sent him to preach.

Even today John's testimony is an example for us; but unfortunately he continues to preach in the desert as too few listen to his message of conversion and long for the coming of the Messiah. Perhaps for this reason our world is so saddened and unhappy. No one can deny the bitterness of the modern man; the man who finds no way out of his anguish; he is a man who is in a certain sense spiritually ill. John's message, however, is a message of joy: "The Redeemer comes! The joy of our hearts and the liberator of our souls is among us." John also makes clear in his message that the Messiah cannot abide in the heart, unless it moves away from the sin that closes the door to God. His, therefore, is a two-fold message of joy and penance. The kingdom of God is at hand, Emmanuel (God with us) is here and He wants to enter your house, which is purified by penance. Those who do not want to hear about penance also do not want to hear about the joy of God's forgiveness and friendship.

The joy of the Baptist shows that living in God's love begins here below. It is the joy of the kingdom of God—His presence here and now. But the joy is given on a steep road which requires a total confidence in God, and a preference given to the kingdom. And the time for this is now, Repent, for the kingdom of God is at hand!

The Catechism of the Catholic Church teaches us that "true happiness is not found in riches or well-being, in human fame or power, or in any human achievement—however beneficial it may be—such as science, technology, and art, or indeed in any creature, but in God alone, the source of every good and of all love." (CCC 1723) And this points to the paradox that seems to us particularly apparent today. As Pope Paul VI points out: "Our technological society has succeeded in multiplying the opportunities for pleasure, but it has great difficulty in generating joy." (Pius VI, Gaudete in Domino, sec. 1)

May John the Baptist, with his fire, but also with his humility, teach us to prepare the way of the Lord. May his message truly open our souls to the merciful God, who he announces and loves so much that he offers his life for Him.

Mary, Our Lady of Peace, pray for us,

Fr. Brian
